Water in a Changing World

An interactive panel moderated by Stanley L. Laskowski, President of the Philadelphia Global Water Initiative, and featuring Aldo Magazzeni and E. Elijah Korich, change agents working to bring clean water and sanitation to Afghanistan, Kenya and beyond

10 am to noon on Saturday, November 14, 2009
West Chester's Municipal Building
401 E. Gay Street
West Chester
Public invited, parking in rear

This program will feature the film, Running Dry, which outlines the global water crisis. The above experts will address how water affects the achievement of the eight United Nations Millennium Development Goals, how water and sanitation issues impede progress in developing countries and what world citizens have done and can do to help.

“Every twenty seconds someone in the world, usually a child, dies of a water related problem. How can we continue business as usual knowing that 1.8 million children die each year of water related illnesses or starvation?”
